Statement on the California Transparency in Supply Chains Act and UK Modern Slavery Act

The California Transparency in Supply Chains Act of 2010 and the UK Modern Slavery Act of 2015 strive for the elimination of slavery and human trafficking in product supply chains and require certain companies to disclose efforts to achieve those goals.

ADM companies (ADM) respect human rights and expect our business partners to also treat their employees with dignity and respect. We will never knowingly use suppliers who employ or exploit legally underage workers or forced labor and will not condone such practices. We implement the following programs and policies related to our human rights commitments.

- Our Commitment to Respect for Human Rights:
 - Aimed at ensuring our colleagues, suppliers and contractors respect workers' rights and comply with all applicable local, national and international laws governing working conditions.
 - Contains strict prohibitions against the use of child labor, forced labor and bonded labor, and includes several other guidelines to protect workers from exploitation.
 - Creates an implementation framework for identifying, assessing and addressing potential human rights risks in our supply chain.
